

"My name is Amalia Fotopoulou and I have graduated from the Psychology department of the University of Cyprus. I am currently in the process of gaining experience in the field of Research Psychology and Neuroscience. The aim of joining CAN is to broaden my academic knowledge and to be prepared for any future career challenges. One of the main aspects that I am interested in understanding is the human brain functions as brain consists one of the most important parts of human body."

"I am Gizem from Cyprus. Currently, I am in my 3rd year of bachelor's degree at Eastern Mediterranean University. I have been always enthusiastic to learn more about brain, mind, and behavioural processes. My psychological area of interests includes patients who suffer from neuropsychological disorders. CAN internship will be my first chance to investigate patients with epilepsy, traumatic brain injury, healthy and pathological ageing displaying neuropsychological deficits by using neuroscience and neurobehavioral research methodologies."

"Hello, my name is Constantinos. I have just graduated from the University of Cyprus with a bachelor in psychology. I am currently an intern at the Language and Cognitive Development Research Group under the supervision of Dr George Spanoudis. Some of my research interests include neurodevelopmental disorders, the development and reduction of prejudice in children, resilience in children with history of immigration and bullying at school. My aspiration for the future is to become a school psychologist."

"My name is Fotini Eracleous and I'm an undergraduate psychology student at University of Cyprus. My greatest aspiration is to become a scientist in the neuroscience field of psychology and contribute to my country's research on the human brain and behavior. I'm more than grateful to be a part of the CAN team as I've noticed the remarkable work that has been done the past years. I'm looking forward to collaborate with my peers and gain every knowledge that this internship is offering to give me."
